

FIFTH RAID ON LONDON IN WEEK IS INEFFECTIVE

British Naval Air Patrols Destroy Two Enemy Machines and Bring Down Third.

AIR BARRAGE SUCCESSFUL

Thousands Shells Fired at Invaders For Every Bomb Dropped; Details Lacking, But Few Casualties Are Thought to Have Been Caused.

By Associated Press.

LONDON Oct 1.—British naval air patrols last night destroyed two enemy machines and brought down another, says an official announcement. A Gotha also was brought down and is believed to have been damaged. All the British machines are safe.

The air raid of Sunday night—the fifth within seven days—as far as available details show accomplished nothing important for the enemy. The aim that the new air barrage acts as a powerful deterrent to the raiders seems to have been justified further in a latest attack.

An immense number of guns of war is said to be in action. Indeed, it was they and not the invaders who were putting up the show. There was an intense and far-reaching searching of the skies in all directions, the flashes of bursting missiles showing brightly in the heavens notwithstanding the extreme brightness of a full moon. Even more impressive was the terrific din of the raid.

The enormous and prolonged volume of gunfire certainly was alarming to civilian ears not accustomed to it. Some of the high velocity weapons exploded detonated with a deafening roar. They were indistinguishable by the ear, from the roar of bursting bombs. The schedule does not mention No. 20 bomb which unofficial address stated is to send 20 men on Sunday. This omission is probably due to a clerical error.

The special train will carry 500 men without the quota of the 1000 men on board. The schedule calls for a stop at each station and other officials of every bank in the county acting as vice presidents of his organization.

The quota for the Cleveland Federal Reserve district of which Connellsville is a part, is $300,000,000.

The campaign will be conducted here by the local bankers as before.

Washington Oct 1.—The big drive to county Districts 2 and 5 with headquarters in Connellsville will send the third contingents of recruits to Camp Lee on Sunday according to the schedule of no element which has been issued at Harrisburg.

Both of the other contingents have left on Sundays. No 2 this time will send out and No 3 will send 38.

The movement of the troops in Fayette county will start on Thursday when District No 1 (Monaca) will send 61 men to Pittsburgh. On Saturday District 3 (Brownsville) will send 46; District 4 (Masontown) will send 46; No 6 (Repulse) will send 52 and No 7 (McClellandtown) will send 43.

On Sunday these contingents among others will leave for camp in addition to those of Fayette 2 and 5 and Westmoreland county No 6. Mc Pleasant 42 Westmoreland county No 7 Scottsdale 45 Somerset county No 1 Rockwood 39 Presque Isle 10 Liberty Loan bond Inquire at these boys' posts on the same train as Connellsville.

A schedule received by No 5 board this morning sets the date of the next draft's departure for Sunday night October 7 instead of Wednesday. On October 3 this will probably necessitate a change in the campaign plan which had been set for the last campaign. It was thought improbable that the county campaign would get under way before the last of the week, a though the nation wide campaign officially opens today.

H. H. Bowman will likely be re named as chairman of the county committee and Earl S. Arford as secretary with each other and other officials of every bank in the county acting as vice presidents of his organization.

The quota for the Cleveland Federal Reserve district of which Connellsville is a part, is $300,000,000.

The campaign will be conducted here by the local bankers as before.

YOUTH ACCUSED OF AUTO THEFTS MAKES DASH FOR LIBERTY

Clarence Summer Escapes From Patrolman But Is Quickly Recaptured.

Charged with being connected with the stealing of automobiles belonging to C. J. Packman of Connellsburg and Palo Brothers of Uniontown, Clarence Summer and James Warwick of Snyderstown have been arrested by City Detective J. W. Mitchell and a third youth, said to be implicated, is being sought.

While waiting for a Uniontown car about 10 o'clock this morning, Summer broke away from Patrolman Aaron Coughenour and darted out the alley next to the West Penn. After racing at top speed out Meadow Lane followed by the policeman and a crowd of men, the fugitive was finally recaptured by the patrolman at the foot of the hill and returned to our hall in handcuffs. He was taken to downtown last in the morning.

The Uniflava car was stolen Sunday, a week ago, from in front of the Moose Club there. Packman's car was taken Tuesday night from his garage. The young men arrested were seen in the Uniontown car. Further evidence against them was the discovery of a pistol and several tires under a tarp in Snyderstown.

The Ford machine, which is a Ford touring car, was driven to below Broad Ford, where a wheel was broken. The young men then took Packman's car, a Ford roadster, and removing a wheel from it placed it on the larger machine. License plates were removed from both cars. At police station this morning Summer said that the youth who had not yet been arrested, stole the cars. Warwick has been released on $300 bail.

Summer was arrested sometime ago for theft of automobile accessories, amounting to several hundred dollars. He and other youths implicated with him, were released when they made good the losses to the owners. Since being arrested Summer has told different tales, one being that he would plead guilty and again declare that he was not connected with the actual stealing of the cars.

Everson Residents Form Permanent Patriotic Organization

ODD FELLOWS ANNIVERSARY

Local Lodge on Saturday Night Fit-tingly Observed; 43rd Anniversary; Fine Program, Refreshments and Social Time; Other News Notes.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 1.—The citizens of Everson and Upper Tyrone township met in the Tyrone 'hall' at Everson and formed a permanent patriotic organization with Burgess Shannon chairman; George Bamby, secretary, and Thomas Byrne, treasurer. The officers of the Tyrone club offered the hall free of charge any time that this committee wishes to have any celebration for the National Army. The meeting was for the purpose of making an organization that would look after and take care of the members of the National Army as they leave in the draft from time to time.

The following committee was appointed: John R. Byrne, James Keegan, Dr. M. A. Noon, Dr. Pisula, William Sherrick, Thomas Byrne, Charles O'Neil, Howard Hamilton, Martin Mulroy, James Byrne, Michael Magiera, D. J. O'Brien, I. W. Sharpe, Oliver Shannon and Robert Ryan. They will appoint sub-committees to help carry plans out from time to time. The committee will meet this evening at 7 o'clock at the Tyrone club and more details concerning the celebration for the 13 men who leave in the next draft will be given out later.

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

The Scottdale Odd Fellows on Saturday evening celebrated the 43rd anniversary of the Scottdale Lodge. A very nice program was carried out in which Rev. William Hamilton, Mrs. Phil Swartzwelder, Miss Mary Anderson, Miss McLaughlin, Walter and Irving Detwiler and the Everson chapter took part. This was well received by the 500 persons who were there. Following that refreshments were served and from 10 to 12 two very pleasant social hours were spent. The committee in charge was Walter Shafer, Harry Osterweil, R. F. Ellis, Albert Truval and S. J. Shannon.

Campaign Closed Tonight.

So far money for the Soldiers' Library Fund has been coming in very nicely. Those persons who have not given their dollar or more, as they wish to give, will have until this evening to give the money as the week's canvass will not close at this library until this evening.

Fall Communion.

Fall communion services will be observed at the First Presbyterian church on the second Sunday in October. Rev. J. E. Hartman, pastor of the Re-Union Presbyterian church, Mount Pleasant, will preach on Thursday and Friday evenings preceding communion.

CONNELLSVILLE IS WINNER IN OPENING
GAME; SCORE 14-0

Homestead Plays Hard But Breaks Are Against the Visitors.

LOCAL TEAM PROMISING

Power Shown in Backfield and Brilliance on the Line; Game is Slow and Devoid of Thrills, Except in Cases of Several Near Fights.

In a slow game, devoid of features, Connellsville high school defeated Homestead high school at Fayette Field here Saturday afternoon by a score of 14-0. It was the opening game of the season and was played before a good-sized crowd.

Homestead played hard and fought for the game to the final minute, and Connellsville's goal line was threatened more than once. Walker starred for the visitors, and his end runs often netted long gains. The breaks of the game were against the visitors, however, and they were unable to score.

Several near fights among the players livened things up. When a Homestead player jumped on Thomas' neck after he had been downed, the local boy took offense and wanted to mix things up, but the other players prevented a fight. Herwick in the game Carson expressed disapproval of the tactics of McClain whom he was playing against, but here too, the other players intervened and stopped the scrap.

Both teams showed the usual early-season form. They lacked practice and did not play as smoothly working units.

Connellsville's first touchdown was scored in the second quarter. Thomas had previously taken the ball over when he recovered a fumble and made a wide end run for the line, but was called back by the officials because Homestead was offside when the ball was put in motion. The visitors had worked the ball down to Connellsville's 22 yard line when Ashe intercepted a forward pass and Connellsville started a march to the upper goal. Steady gains by Thomas, Moore and Ashe took the ball far up the field. Thomas finally carrying it over, Loughrey punted out to Durnell and Thomas kicked the goal.

In the second quarter, Homestead's speedy backs advanced the pigskin to Connellsville's five yard line, and a touchdown seemed imminent, but the local boys held down in the shadow of their own goal posts.

Moore made Connellsville's second touchdown in the fourth quarter, following a series of effective line plunges. Loughrey punted out to Lyon and Thomas kicked the goal. The game ended with the score 14-0.

The local team showed great promise. Every one of the boys made plays worthy of note, and when a little team work is developed, the high school representatives should make a great record.

Thomas, former Greensburger, bids fair to become the big ground gainer. Thomas looks for the holes in the opposing team's line and he usually finds the openings. Moore and Ashe at the halves made good gains. Lyon, at quarter, who completes the backfield, ran the team well Saturday, and he made some excellent returns of punts.

Captain McCormick was a tower of strength on the line and Perella made some brilliant tackles. Buttermore, Durnell, Carson and DeBolt look like regulars in other line positions, and Loughrey, in addition to playing a bang-up game at end, made several nice kick-offs and punt-outs.

Connellsville goes to Scottdale next week to meet its old rival.

Connellsburg's line is 0-7-0-7-14.

Substitutions—Connellsville, H. Weigener for Ashe; Joseph McConnell for Buttermore.

Scoring—Touchdowns, Thomas and Moore. Goals from touchdowns, Thomas, 2.

Officials—Referee, Herwick; umpire, Mestrezat; head linesman, Stone.

Time of quarters—12 and 10, 12 and 10.

NEAL DRINK TREATMENT QUICK, SURE AND SAFE

Thousands of former drinkers give thanks for the Neal Treatment, which in three days changes craving desire for liquor into tremendous dislike for anything alcoholic.

Nervous drinkers who feel that they can't get along without "bracers" need the Neal Treatment. It is a perfectly harmless vegetable remedy, administered by physicians and taken internally. There are no hypodermic injections.

The treatment quickly restores shattered nerves, clears clouded brains and lets sunlight into downcast, discouraged hearts. Over indulgence in liquor ruins business, mind, health and happiness. The Company D received its fourth inoculation Thursday. This shot, according to the men, was not nearly so violent as some of the previous ones. "Spots" Company D's mascot returned to camp yesterday, after a prolonged vacation. "Spots" is the dog which the men in the company brought from Connellsburg and for several days he was missed. All hope of recovering the dog was given up when he was located in another camp.

CAMP HANCOCK, Sept. 25.—The reorganization of the Twenty-Eighth division will leave the Tenth Regiment intact, it is rumored, so far as separating the regiment is concerned. No official report has been given out in camp, but it is generally supposed that the Eighteenth infantry will be entirely done away with and the men will be placed in other regiments, part of them coming to the Tenth. The Sixteenth will also be held and will be filled up from the other organizations that must go.

While the Tenth will remain together, the various organizations within its bounds together with the troops that will come from the other departments will all come under the name of the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry and the name Tenth regiment will be entirely done away with.

As far as the sanitary detachment is concerned, it will be kept together and a detachment from one of the old regiments, probably the Thirteenth, will be transferred to fill it up in accordance with the new regulation.

That the Tenth sanitary detachment will not be split up is probably due to the fact that Major M. S. McGee, in command of the medical department, is the senior major thus giving him the authority to hold his men together. The entire regiment will be moved from its present location and will occupy the places vacated by the other regiments that have been dissolved. This, while meaning considerable work, will be an advantage, as the new location is more desirable than the one which they now occupy.

The One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry will, without a doubt, be more complete in every detail than was the Tenth, but it will never win a name such as the Tenth now has.

The Fighting Tenth" is famous all over the state of Pennsylvania for its bravery and it is not without regret that the new name is assumed.

Amusements such as baseball, football, wrestling, boxing and other such activities are being encouraged by the officers here. Nearly every organization has its team whether football or baseball and practice is held regularly.

Company D boasts of its football team. "D" company lined up against the Machine Gun Company one day last week and held them to a scoreless tie. The game was a fast one and each side did its best to score but each time one of them got close to the other's goal they were held or pushed back.

Harold Herwick of the Hospital Corps, arrived a camp yesterday after spending a short time in Pittsburgh due to the death of his brother.

A large turnout is expected at the "Vanderbilt Show" to be held by the boys of the Tenth this evening. An event like this usually attracts a crowd from the city, and the boys like to have visitors.

The supply company has no mules for its wagons, and when it is necessary for the wagons to be moved, they are moved by hand power. Indiana Cornell Santmyer and "T" Wurtz playing mule for a whole day. They did it.

Lloyd Shaw is quite a lover of music. Lloyd himself is becoming quite a singer, his favorite selection being "There's Someone More Lonesome Than You." He has been known to sing this all hours of the day, as well as the night.

Clarence Cooper is the champion checker player of the Hospital Corps. Cooper belongs to the old school of checker players and can't be beaten.

Turks Slaughter Thousands Of Armenians With Axes

(Correspondence of Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The slaughter with axes of all the Armenian faculty members of Anatolia College, Marsovan, Northern Asia Minor, together with 1,200 others by Turkish peasants whose pay for the work was the privilege of stripping the clothing off their victims' bodies, was described here today by the Rev. George E. White, president of the college, recently returned to this country. The massacres were committed at night, by order of the Turkish government, he said, the Armenians being sent out in lots of a hundred or two to their doom and their bodies rolled into prepared burial trenches.

"One group of our college boys asked permission to sing before they died and they sang 'Nearer My God to Thee'—then they were struck down," Dr. White said.

"The situation for Armenia became excessively acute in the Spring of 1915 when the Turks determined to eliminate the Armenian question by eliminating the Armenians. The Armenian question arises from political and religious causes."

"On the pretext of searching for deserting soldiers, concealed bombs, weapons, seditious literature or revolutionists, the Turkish officers arrested about 1,200 Armenians at Marsovan, accompanying their investigations by horrible brutalities. There was no revolutionary activity in our region whatever."

"The men were sent out in lots of one or two hundred in night 'deportations' to the mountains where the trenches had been prepared. Coarse peasants, who were employed to do what was done, said it was 'put to waste bullets' and they used axes.

"Then the Turks turned on the women and children, the old men and little boys. Scores of excarts were gathered and in the early dawn as they passed, the squeaking of their wheels left memories that make the blood curdle even now. Thousands of women and children were swept away.

"Waere! Nowhere. No destination was stated or intended. Way? Simply because they were Armenians, and Christians and were in the hands of the Turks."

"Girls and young women were snatched away at every turn on the journey. The girls sold at Marsovan for from $2 to $4 each. I know, because I heard the conversation of men in the traffic—I know because I was able to ransom three girls at the price of $4.40.

"The misery, the agony, he suffering were beyond power of words to express—ahos; beyond the power of hearts to conceive. In bereavement, thirst, hunger, loneliness, hopelessness, the groups were swept on and on along roads which had no destination.

"I received word from Ambassador

Morgenthau that our premises would not be interfered with. Next morning the chief of police came with armed men and demanded surrender of all Armenians connected with the College, Girls' School and Hospital.

We claimed the right to control our schools as American citizens.

"More than two hours we held them at bay. They brought more armed men. The again demanded surrender of the Armenians. I refused. They challenged me for resisting the Turkish government. They said any one who did so was liable to immediate execution.

"They broke open our gates, brought in excarts and asked where the Armenians were. I refused to tell. They went through the building, smashing down the doors. Then out Armenian friends, fearing that further attempt on our part to save them would bring more harm probably than good, came forth, professed themselves loyal

Turkish subjects and offered to do what was required.

"An excart was assigned each family with a meager supply of food, bedding and clothing. The mother sat on the load with her children about her, the father prepared to walk beside the cart. I offered prayer and then the sad procession, carrying 72 persons from the college and hospital moved away.

"These teachers were men of character, education, ability and usefulness, several of them representing the fine type of graduates from the American or European universities.

The company went in safety for about 50 miles. Then the men were separated from the women. Their hands were bound behind their backs and they were led away. The eight Armenian members of the staff of instruction at Anatolia College were among the slain. The women and children were moved on and on. No one knows where and no one knows how many of them are still living.

"The government officers plowed

the Armenian cemetery in Marsovan and sowed it with grain as a symbol that no Armenian should live or die to be buried there. No Armenian student or teacher was left at Anatolia

College and of the Protestant congregation in the city of 950 souls, more than 900 with their pastors were swept away. It was a government movement throughout—a movement against the Armenian people.

"These things are typical of what took place through the six provinces of the Turkish Empire known as Armenia. The Armenians are the Yankees of the East—the merchants, manufacturers, capitalists, artisans,

and among the best of the farmers.

One quarter of a million people succeeded in escaping into Russia, Caucasus and among them American representatives have done wonderful work in caring for the sick, giving bread to the hungry, clothing to the naked, caring for orphans. Probably a million more went to Syria and Mesopotamia where they have been dependent upon American relief which is helping this worthy people to pull through alive."

The number of Armenians who have been massacred, said Dr. White,

CONSTIPATION CAUSES OBSTINATE HEADACHES

When your head aches you will usually find the bowels have been inactive, and if you relieve this condition, by clearing the intestinal organs of the fermenting congestion of stomach waste, foul gases and bile, the head is relieved immediately.

Remember this the next time you suffer from headache. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsi will be drugless, quieting and effective. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint is highly recommended as a gentle laxative that acts easily and quickly, without gripping or discomfort. It contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug, is pleasant to the taste, and a most effective household remedy. Mothers find it especially desirable as a laxative for children.

You can buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint from your druggist for fifty cents. Get a bottle and have it in the house when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 26 Washington St., Monticello, Illinoi.

SPENDS $1500 IN HER SEARCH FOR GOOD HEALTH

Tells How Taniac Relieved
Wife When All Else Failed

The many friends of Mrs. W. W. Hersh of Souderton, Pa., near Lancaster, have remarked on her almost miraculous return to health and Mr. Hersh feels that he owes it to the public to make known the true facts in the case. He said:

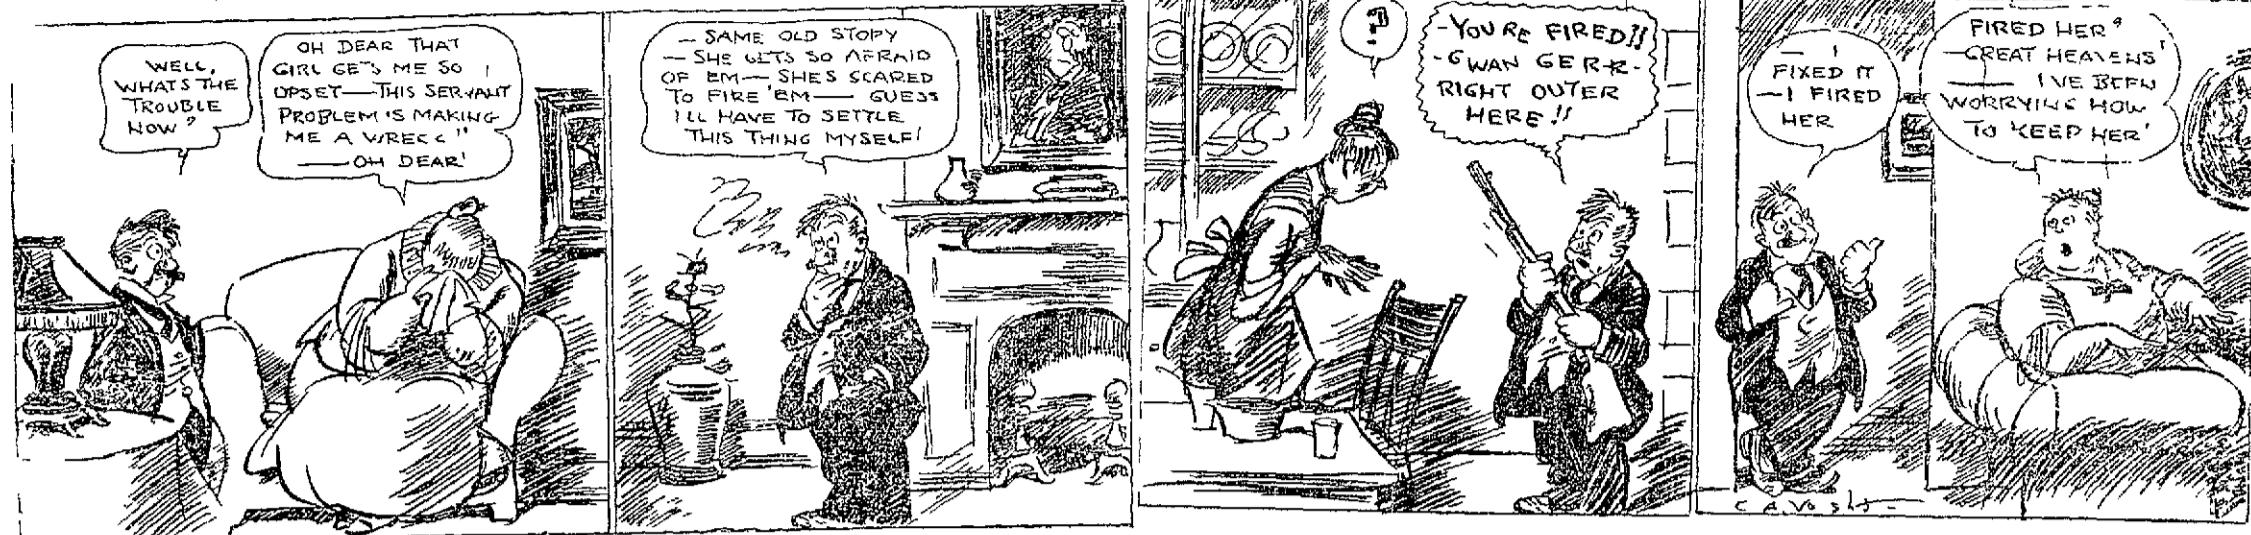

"During the past thirty years I have spent at least $15,000 in medicines and doctors' bills in an effort to find a cure for my wife's stomach trouble, but it was money thrown away, for she kept getting worse and worse.

"The lining of her stomach was as raw as a piece of meat, and she couldn't eat anything without causing her terrible distress. Anything fried or greasy was poison to her. Her nervous system was a total wreck, and the least little thing would irritate her, and at night her nerves would jump and tingle so that she couldn't rest, and she would get up every morning with a bursting headache. We decided to give Taniac a trial, and to our delight, and surprise, it helped her right away, and now she is in perfect health.

"She can eat most fat meat than I can bear, and whatever she eats digests perfectly; her bowels are regular, and sleep—why, she can sleep like a baby and wake up refreshed and happy with never a headache."

Taniac is being sold here by the Connellsville Drug Co.

Daring French Aviator and Zouave Escape From Germany

They Bribed Peasant Woman With Chocolate, Tea and Canned Goods and Get Overcoats and Old Felt Hats of Civilians.

A REALLY gripping story of one of the most remarkable episodes of the great war has been told me by Adjutant Pilie Henri Reservat, a hero of the French aviation corps who recently succeeded in escaping from a German prison camp and is now visiting once more the free air of France. I wish I could convey in writing the modest, simple, matter-of-fact manner in which Adjutant Reservat speaks of his strange experience says Paul Ayres Rockwell, staff correspondent of the Chicago Daily News. Adjutant Reservat was a pilot with the famous fighting escadrille N 62 which was one of the first flying groups to go to the Verdun front last year. After many successful reconnoisseances and combats he was ordered on May 22, 1916, to attack and destroy a German observation balloon. The attack was successful and Reservat sent the drachen flaming to earth. But while he was diving on the balloon and destroying it four German aeroplanes came up behind him and began riddling his machine with bullets.

Reservat was eight kilometers (four and eight tenths miles) within the German lines and subjected not only to the attacks of the four aviators, but to a grilling shell fire from anti-aircraft guns. Yet he did not lose hope of getting back home. He headed for the French lines with six German assailants after him, flying all the time. Reservat's machine gun was a fixed one and could only be fired in the direction in which his machine was headed. Several times he tried to maneuver so as to return the German fire. All his efforts were in vain. A number of bullets pierced the motor, and he was forced to land in German territory.

Germans Congratulate Reservat. The four German pilots who had been attacking Reservat also landed. They congratulated him upon his gallant struggle then wrote a note commanding his having destroyed the drachen assigned him and telling of his being captured after a heroic attempt to escape. The note was carried up by a German aviator and dropped into the French lines. Reservat was put on a train and taken away to a German prison camp near Mayence (the German Molme).

Captivity was not agreeable to this eagle, who loved the free air, and Reservat at once began planning his escape. The camp at Mayence was too well guarded, however. Then he was moved to Welsburg, where the regime was even more strict. Seeing that there was little hope of getting safely away from this camp Reservat volunteered to go to work in a great agricultural camp and succeeded in being transferred to Giessen.

Here there was more freedom. The prisoners were even allowed an hour a day in which to go out into the little village nearby to purchase coffee and other bits. Reservat made the acquaintance of an old peasant woman and, pretending that he wished it as a protection against the cold, asked her to sell him a civilian overcoat. The woman consented to sell the coat on condition that it should be paid for with chocolate, tea, canned goods and other edibles which Reservat received in weekly parcels from France. The exchange was made and the old woman also sold a civilian coat to a young zouave sergeant, who was to be Reservat's comrade in the dash for liberty. For several cakes of chocolate the scheming Frenchmen also bought from a servant girl two rough felt hats.

Road Map in Parcel

Many months before one of the prisoners had received hidden in a parcel from France a good road map of Germany. Reservat and his comrade made a tracing of it. They also laid it in the shape of chocolate biscuits and canned foods sent them from home and finally on March 18, 1917, all was ready for the departure. Taking advantage of a long lull in the tracks in locking the door of their barracks, the two men slipped out in the darkness and were on the road to liberty.

Here are a few details of the journey written by Reservat during the long dark hours in which he and his companion lay hidden in thick forest or abandoned houses.

Departed at 8 p.m. the evening of March 19, 1917, and it was without incident. We took a route for Limburg and thought to gain several kilometers by cutting a road through the woods. Alas at the end of an hour and a half we found ourselves lost in the forests. Finally we discovered the main road and crossed the Lahn. Here and take the direction of the frontier. We stop at 2 p.m. and rest hidden until 11 p.m. the following night.

"March 20—Departure at 11:30 p.m. Bad weather, rain and wind. We are happy to be able to drink rain water. We take the right road and arrive near our goal. About 2 a.m. the sky became light. We find the polar star which leads us to freedom. Cutting across the fields we march for about eight kilometers and when the sun rises we find ourselves in Holland free and saved. We are tired out and dirty from head to foot.

The two soldiers were well received at the frontier village and rested three days with a family of Belgian refugees.

Then they went to Rotterdam where they rested for a month. Crossing to England they finally reached France on June 6. Both men were still very tired and were granted a long period of repose by the French war department.

SOWING MINES IN THE SEA

If These Ship Destroyers Are Laid and Anchored

Mine laying and mine sweeping are two important subordinate functions in a modern navy and both of these occupations are fraught with danger to those engaged in them.

A mine is really a metal globe containing a weight from 200 pounds to 250 pounds of trinitrotoluene or TNT an extremely powerful high explosive calculated to make things very unpleasant for any ship that runs against one of the little horns on top of the mine.

Before the mine is put into the sea the globe squats at one might say between four metal uprights upon a round flat weight to which it is attached by a short length of wire rope the greater part of which is coiled round a crani inside the weight.

When the mine is put into the water the globe contrivance sinks at once to the bottom. As soon as it touches ground the bump releases a little catch which sets all sorts of wheels revolving with the result that the four uprights fall outward. They grip the sea bed, and the contrivance is anchored. Then the globe begins to rise while the rope unwinds until it has reached a fixed length.

Thereafter we be the unfortunate ship that runs upon it—London Chronicle

NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

If There Were Fewer of Them There Would Be Less Crime

A St. Louis judge recently made the statement in an address delivered before a local bar association that if one-fourth as much as is spent keeping up our courts, jails, poorhouses and paupers was applied to help neglected city children make a proper start in life the tide of crime surely would decrease.

"We passed through several villages and arrived without knowing it, at the gates of Limburg. Crossed part of the city without incident apart from meeting several workmen and found ourselves on the correct route, in the direction of Bonn.

"March 22—Departure at 8:30 p.m. Fine weather. Marched without incident until morning. We have stopped in a wood of small pines, for it is the best of hiding places, especially as since we left that prison camp we have not been discovered. It is very cold and it was not yet daylight when we stopped. We tried to warm ourselves by running up and down the road. We were almost caught by a civilian whom we did not hear coming. It took only one jump for us to penetrate into our wood, and we are resting tranquilly in our hiding place.

Reach Heights of Rhine

"March 24—Departure at 8:15 p.m. Good march. Lost our way about 2 a.m., but found it again on the banks of the Rhine. Following the Rhine we arrived at Bens. We decided to hide on the heights that overlook the Rhine. Were disillusioned by the woods we found there. Finally we discovered an abandoned stone quarry where we found a little hot water. We entered, barricaded the doors and have passed a most exciting day. Are worried because of the children who have been playing around all day and who seem to find it very strange that but is closed up.

"Before dark we came out of our hiding place and watched the sun set from the banks of the Rhine just like tourists.

"March 25—We took our departure in very bad weather snow and an icy rain. We are wet to the skin and have difficulty in walking. We got lost about 3 a.m. but managed finally to stop near the point we had decided upon in advance. We are sheltered in a large wood of pines but have been on the watch all day because we are near a large city. Are still wet to the skin for it is impossible to dry ourselves. A very burd and cold day.

"March 27—I'm route at 8 p.m. We pass the city of Dusseldorf. After a little trouble we had our correct road. We follow it half the night, then to change our custom we got lost.

Comrade Wants to Give Up

My comrade is again about to give up in despair being completely demoralized and fatigued and having a terrible toothache.

"March 28—We set out at 8 p.m. We had our route, not without trouble,

REAL MIDDLEWEIGHTS PROMISE GOOD SPORT

Various Contenders for Title Likely to Get Together.

With Champion Al McCoy ready to make his debut from the boxing game the mid-lightweight division promises to be unusually active this fall and winter.

McCoy has declared his unwillingness to battle outside the Empire state and as the game is doomed to New York various contenders for the 158 pound title will assert themselves in an effort to succeed the Brooklyn southpaw as wearer of the crown.

Prominent among the real middleweights are Jack McCarron of Allen town who became famous as the $30,000 Beau in the hands of Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. Mike Gibbons who is now in the middleweight division Kayo Bremer of Buffalo, Jet Smith of Bayonne, N.J. who claims to have defeated the late Lee Darcy, George Chip entry from the stable of Jimmy Dime and former title holder and Harry Grebb of Pittsburgh Pa. the latest sensation who is being handled by Red Mason.

There is a flock of second raters knocking at the door just below the more named group but the men named are undeniably the pick of the 168-pounders.

Let us have a real middleweight champion. A champion who can and who will do 168 at six o'clock and enter the ring in ten or ten. If McCoy is to retire he will create a new champion by eluding you confounding the contenders to see who will meet the weight requirement and fight at it afterward?

We have had too many title holders who refused to reveal their poundage on the scales and who if forced to do so would register several pounds over the class limit.

Johnny Kilbane could always do 172 pounds. Benny Leonard can make the light-weight limit without trouble. But it is doubtful if Al McCoy has weighed 178 pounds in the ring since he was given an unexpected knockout blow to the jaw by Champion George Chip.

There are just number of 160-pound middleweights, but not many

PRAISE JENNINGS FOR MOST GRACIOUS ACT

There is no reason why ethics should not prevail in the baseball profession as well as in all others but rarely ever has such courtesy been shown as was displayed by Manager Hugh Jennings in a recent game between Detroit and Cleveland when he graciously allowed Tom Spealer, who had retired on account of an injury to re-enter the game after one inning. This kind of naughtiness is only too rare among managers probably for the reason that if it were made a regular feature it would be abused but anyway the magnanimity of the Tiger manager must be commended.

HAS GOAT OF ATHLETICS

Most Successful of Tiger Pitchers Against Mack's Men Connie Mack is probably thinking his stars that there is but one Harry Coveskie in the American League. Every club had a Harry Coveskie the Athletics would fall through the bottom of the leaves and sink into oblivion because Coveskie has their goat tied up in a sack.

Since the beginning of the 1916 season Coveskie has pitched eight games against the Mackmen and won the magnanimity of the Tiger manager must be commended.

Home Again.

So that I wasn't restraining you with any hope for my own advantage. Fife went on. There was the kid, and there was you. I wanted to put a bridle on you to make you go slow. You're a complex individual. Stella. Along with certain fixed, fundamental principles you've got a streak of divine madness in you a propensity for reckless undertakings. You'd never have married me if you hadn't trusted me absolutely, but I was afraid in spite of my faith. She draped such an idealistic mantle around Monohan I wanted to read that before it came to a final separation between us. It worked out, because he couldn't resist trying to take a crack at me when the notion seized him.

"So," he continued after a pause, "you aren't responsible, and I've been considered you responsible for any of this. It's between him and me, and it's been shaping for years. Whenever our trails crossed there was bound to be a clash. There always been a natural personal antagonism between us. It began to show when we were kids, you might say. Monohan's nature is such that he can't acknowledge defeat. He can't deny himself gratification. He's a supreme egotist. He's always had plenty of money, he's always had what he wanted, and it never mattered how he gratified his demands. We locked horns was at high school. Mouthed I beat him in.

red and generally writing that I slumped, and I whipped paper that I had in hand those days d him. I had nothing or him anyway, because I wasn't quite a woman hunter press. I don't know what women is, but it works d him out.

On that time on he had a laid for a chance to sting went to Princeton the same real. We collided there, so hard that when word of it got to my father's ears he called me home and read the riot act so strong that I dared up and left. Then I came to the coast here and got a job in the woods to get a logging boss and went into business on my own hook eventually. I'd just got nicely started when I ran into Monohan again. He'd got into timber him self. I was hand logging up the coast and I'd hate to tell you the tricks he tried. He kept it up until I got too big to be harassed in a petty way. Then he left me alone. But he never forgot his grudge. The stage was all set for this last long before you gave him his cue. Stella, you weren't to blame for that, or if you were in part it doesn't matter now. I'm satisfied. Paradoxically I feel rich, even though it's a long shot that I'm broke flat. I've got something money doesn't buy. And he has overreached himself at last. All his money and pull won't help him out of this jack pot. Arson and attempted murder is serious business.

"They caught him," Stella said. "The constables took him down the lake tonight. I saw him on their launch as they passed the Waterbury."

"Yes?" Fife said. Quick work I didn't even know about the shooting till I came to here tonight about dark. Well," he snapped his fingers "That's Monohan. He's a dead issue so far as we're concerned. Wouldn't you like something to eat? Stella? I'm hungry, and I was dog tired when I landed here. Say, you can't guess what I was thinking about lady standing there when you came in."

She shook her head. "I had a crazy notion of touching a match to the house," he said soberly, letting it go up in smoke with the rest. Yes, that's what I was thinking I would do. Then I'd have the Panther and what gear I have off the scow and pull off Roaring River. It didn't seem as if I could stay. I'd laid the foundation of a fortune here and tried to make a home and lost it all, every thing that was worth having. And then all at once there we were, like a vision in the door. Miracles do happen!"

Her arms tightened involuntarily about him.

"Oh," she cried breathlessly "our little white house."

"Without you" be replied softly. "It was just an empty shell of boards and plaster, something to cause me ache with loneliness."

But now she murmured. "It's home now."

"Yea," he agreed, smiling.

"Ah, but it isn't quite." She choked down a lump in her throat, "not when I think of those little feet that used to patter on the floor. Oh, Jack when I think of my baby boy! My dear my dears, we did all this have to be I wonder?"

Fife stroked her glossy coils of hair. "We get nothing of value without a price," he said quietly. "Except by rare accident nothing that's worth having comes cheap and easy. We've paid the price and we're square with the world and with each other. That's everything."

"Are you completely ruined, Jack?" she asked after an interval. "Charlie and you were."

"Well," he answered reflectively, "I haven't had time to balance accounts but I guess I will be."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

America is just beginning to learn her great lesson in thrift. Our development as a nation in this country has been so rapid and our resources have been so tremendous and our prosperity so extensive that we have as a nation given little or no thought to the question of thrift. But the war is changing us materially.

It is to our advantage to know what is being done in other nations in the direction of increasing development in this line of endeavor. The annuity system adopted by the Canadian government—sometimes referred to as the poor man's penny bank and the rich man's safety vault" In Canada anyone may contract with the government for the purchase of an annuity for an amount determined in Canada who is past the age of five years.

1—For life of the annuitant until he is 65, or until he is 65 he could begin to draw, at the end of that period and for the rest of his life 5 months. At year he would have paid in $862.63 and if he lived three years beyond the 65 he would get back more than he paid in.

2—for the term of years certain not exceed 20 years or for the life of the annuitant which ever period shall be the longer.

3—for an annuitant or deferred annuity to any two persons during their lives and without continuance to the survivors.

The Canadian Annuity law is a splendid example of what can be accomplished in thrift work with government cooperation.

Employers of labor may, pursuant to agreement entered into with their employees, contract with the government for the sale of annuities otherwise purchasable by such employees as individuals and under such terms as may be made between them as to the payment of premiums. And any body—corporate, religious, educational, fraternal, benevolent or for other lawful purpose, may contract for annuities for its members. The minimum amount which may be purchased is $50 and the maximum is $1,000.

A typical instance is given of a well-to-do business man who has paid the Canadian government the sum of $8,725 to secure for himself aged 32 to 34, his wife aged 29 and his three children aged 9, 8 and 5, an annuity of $500 each to begin at 52. If any or all of them die before 55, the amount paid will be returned to their legal representatives with 3 per cent compound interest up to the date of death. An example of the way the law works may be cited as follows:

If a man aged 29 made a payment into the annuity fund of $19.17 a year until he was 65 he could begin to draw, at the end of that period and for the rest of his life 5 months. At year he would have paid in $862.63 and if he lived three years beyond the 65 he would get back more than he paid in. If he died before reaching 65 his heirs would receive every dollar he had paid in with 3 per cent compound interest.

The Canadian Annuity law is a splendid example of what can be accomplished in thrift work with government cooperation.

CONSECRATION

Now to the stars that we unfold
For service to the world.
Let us add a cloudless star of Faith
With them to be unfurled.
Let us find room for other stars
That all more radiant be.
Let us find room upon the flag
For Hope and Charity.

Now on the shield of those who serve
Let a white flag fly in gloom.
The stars that give a sense of Faith
To a world with human fetters.
Let Liberty be written there.
The herald of the day.
To which we consecrate ourselves
Forever come what may.

Now to the cause so long in gloom,
Of Justice, Truth and Right.
Now to the cause Democracy
We pledge supreme might.
Let us find room upon the flag
Or equal rights for all.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS
FOR PHILADELPHIA

Two or More of the Most Powerful Known Will Be Placed In City.

Philadelphia is to be protected from the possibility of attack from the air by two or more of the largest and most powerful anti-aircraft guns that have yet been constructed. The Philadelphia navy yard and the Franklin Arsenal are the vulnerable points that are to receive most of the protection but the city itself will also be considered in the protective plans.

The gun is of the mobile type and can be demounted quickly and rushed to a new position by a big motor truck that is part of its equipment. It is said at the navy yard that the gun is very much like the great anti-aircraft rifles that guard the approaches to Paris and London.

The war department is not contenting an attack by Zeppelins or air planes flying across the Atlantic but they are providing against an assault by seaplanes making the trip across seas on the decks of the German high seas fleet. The warnings that have been received from Admirals Sims and Jellicoe to the effect that the German fleet may sail forth at any time and passing by the strongly defended coast of England, attack the Atlantic coast of the United States is responsible for the precautions that are being taken.

In such a raid seaplanes and submarines undoubtedly would be used the submarines to threaten the American coast and keep it hidden protective nets the planes to bomb munition plants many yards arsenals and large cities of the coast.

That the prospect is not a chimera is proved by the activity of the war and navy departments in taking the "stitches in time." There is no objection being made to the publication of the few facts here stated.

The cook's fire was dead, and that wort was dumped on his bed roll smoking a pipe. But he had cold meat, bread, and he brewed a pot of coffee on the big fire for them, and Stella ate the plain fare sitting in the circle of tired loggers.

They went down the path to the bay, hand in hand feeling their way through that blackened area, under a black sky.

The cook's fire was dead, and that wort was dumped on his bed roll smoking a pipe. But he had cold meat, bread, and he brewed a pot of coffee on the big fire for them, and Stella ate the plain fare sitting in the circle of tired loggers.

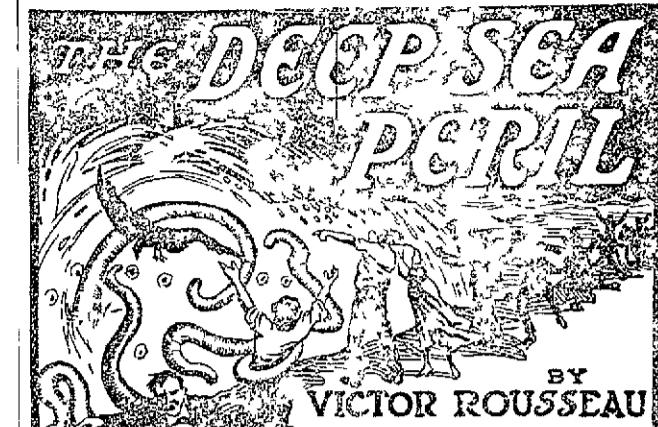

Some conception of the magnitude of the task confronting the American Railroad Association in preparing ordnance that will assure the safe and prompt transportation of these armaments without interfering with regular traffic may be gleaned from the fact that to move merely one field army of 80,000 men requires 12,229 cars made up into 364 trains with as many locomotives and train crews.

Meanwhile in addition to moving the 657,000 recruits for the national army the railroads have been used to support transportation for the 350,000 members of the national guard to their training camps.

An oddly familiar sound murmuring in Stella's ear awakened her. At first she thought she must be dreaming. It was still very dark, but the air that blew in the open window was crisp and cool, filled with that choking smoke.

"Are you completely ruined, Jack?" she asked after an interval. "Charlie and you were."

"Well," he answered reflectively, "I haven't had time to balance accounts but I guess I will be."

CAREFUL SPEECH.

It Aids Clear Thinking and the Expression of One's Ideas.

Nothing is more of a help to clear thinking than careful speech. Very often we discover a flaw in our logic when we attempt to put it into words. Observe the Irish Word. But sometimes we really have ideas though we experience difficulty in expressing them.

People of sympathetic natures are frequently dumb in the presence of sorrow. Some who are very intelligent are so silent and diffident that nobody ever gets the benefit of their bright ideas.

A recent poet has intimated that for the deep things of life language is altogether inadequate, but however that may be, it is the principal means at present by which human beings get close together.

We learn to talk, as we say, in the first few years of life and some of us get very little beyond that start in childhood. We can ask for what we want to eat and drink but we are unable to express sympathy tactfully and gracefully.

We have a great many ideas that we never try to put into words because we feel that we do not know the right words. We have not really learned to talk while we remain silent regarding the things which mean most to us.

Character Theatres

Few people know that plays in England Germany Italy and France were fostered for religious purposes by the church centuries before they were taken up as a separate secular business. Moreover few visitors to St. Paul's cathedral in London realize that the church during Elizabeth's reign and the first years of the reign of James I, set aside one of its adjacent buildings for use as a secular theater. In its stage was famous and the company of clowns who as actors presented many of the great plays of Shakespeare and Ben Jonson.

They acted from about 1590 to 1608 under the management of Edward Fleete whose great master in the church at that time had business control of these adjacent buildings owned by the church—John St. John.

RECREATION FOR MEN UNDER ARMS IS BIG PROBLEM

Where Camps Are Near Small Communities, Situation Is Especially Perplexing.

ORGANIZED CAMPAIGN ON

At Each Camp Forces Will Be Brought Together to Look After Welfare of Enlisted Men; Many Events Planned For Soldier or Sailor's Amusement.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1.—Community recreation for soldiers and sailors in camp in training for the new American Army, and the manner in which it is to be carried on, is explained in a report made public today by Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman of the War and Navy Department Commissions on Training Camp Activities. The report was made to Mr. Fosdick by Victor R. Manning, one of the field secretaries of the Playground and Recreation association of America, through whose experienced workers provision is being made for furnishing recreation for the men in uniform at the 80 or more camps.

Three dollars for each soldier and sailor—a total of $2,750,000—is to be raised for this purpose. A national committee, on which prominent men and women are serving, has been named by Secretary Baker to conduct the campaign for the War Camp Community Recreation Fund.

Mr. Manning shows the relation of the War Camp Community Recreation Fund to the work which is being done inside the camps by such agencies as the Young Men's Christian Association and in the exclusion of vice and vicious resorts from the camp neighborhood.

He shows also how the Playground and Recreation association of America, through work done by its representatives, already has demonstrated the need of building up all sorts of recreation and amusement for establishing camp and community on the best basis.

"The community organization work," says the report, "which is that of interpreting the adjacent community to the boys in camp and of interpreting the life of the soldier to the citizens is to be done by the Playground and Recreation association of America through its trained workers experienced in this field. What this service means is explained by one of these community organizers, Ira W. Jayne, of Detroit, as follows:

"The object in each community is much the same—to convince the citizens that this boy in uniform is still a human being, that he has been uprooted suddenly from his native soil, stripped of every social prop and safeguard—his family ties, his friends, his church, his neighborhood, his fraternal groups, his business connections and the influence of women of his kind and so suddenly transplanted without their gates; that they should become interested in him as an individual, as a person, helping him to re-establish those social connections with this community upon which he was accustomed to depend at home; that he should be neither patronized nor exploited; that he was a civilian yesterday, as they still are, and that he will, let us hope, return to his home a civilian tomorrow."

Mr. Manning reports that in each city, near a camp, social and recreation forces will be brought together in one committee—representatives of churches, clubs, lodges, schools, colleges, recreation centers, parks, moving picture agencies, women's agencies—in fact every force for good in the community that can be used for the highest welfare of the enlisted men. A census will show the men's church preference, grade or profession, of what societies they are members, what their special interests in dramatics, athletics, music or other amusements or recreation may be, and what other special interest they have.

Mr. Manning's report explains that the community work is of two broad types, that of large cities and that of small communities. He says that "one of the great problems is how to provide recreation in the city of small size;" and points to one western camp of 40,000 men, located near a town of less than 5,000. At this place the War Camp Community Recreation Fund committee plans to spend over $50,000 in clubs and auditoriums needed for the entertainment of soldiers in the nearby community. The report shows what has been done at the Newport (Rhode Island) Naval Training Station.

The aim in every community, the report says, is to make the soldier or sailor acquainted with families or individuals who will be his friends. Activities for entertaining the men include auto rides, Sunday dinners, athletic and field events, dances, entertainments at clubs, theatres and moving picture houses, the permission to use swimming pools in clubs, billiard and pool rooms and other club facilities—in fact to provide for the enlisted men every form of recreation which the civilian enjoys.

"In giving themselves to the boys in uniform" Mr. Manning says, in concluding his report, citizens and cities are "finding their own souls" and, after the war, a new spirit of citizenship will prevail."

GOVERNMENT IS BUYING STEEL

War and Navy Departments Placing Heavy Tonnage Orders for Big Variety of Material.

The United States government is again placing large orders for munitions and prospective purchases of shell forgings are heavy. The War Department has placed orders for ordnance requiring an aggregate of nearly 50,000 tons and the navy has awarded contracts requiring about 30,000 tons.

The War Department also has distributed orders for 13,000 tons of billeted shapes for 32 ordnance stores in France, divided among ten shops. Word also comes from Washington that the United States Steel Corporation has been awarded a contract for 1,400 tons of fabricated steel for armament extensions. Orders for 1,000 machine tools costing $3,000,000, to be installed in manufacturing plants that will build 20,000 Liberty airplane motors, also have been placed. The government is purchasing 360 machine tools to be installed in gun repair shops and 90 cranes to improve terminal facilities in France.

Thus far the government has ordered about 25,000 tons of steel tubing and distributed orders for about 18,000 tons of black and galvanized sheets. Export inquiries for various steel products have increased recently, and it is now estimated that contracts are pending for between 75,000 and 100,000 tons for foreign shipment. The Italian government has secured 10,000 tons of Bessemer pig iron from a New Jersey plant at close to $50 per ton, for this year's shipment.
